Hickson, Timofey Mozgov and Logan Paulus Team Managers and GMs: Anthony Davis, Bobby Ryan, Mason Plumlee, J.J. Hickson, Timofey Mozgov and Logan Paulus Share this: Anthony Davis is playing some of the best basketball in his NBA career right now, and has been just as good for the team he's played for this year - the Minnesota Timberwolves. He leads the league in steals, and through the first four games of the season, was named the AP's first-ever Rookie of the Month, along with Indiana's Cody Zeller. Teammates such as J.J. Hickson and Mason Plumlee have been playing well for the Timberwolves, and each are guys that were either drafted in the first round, or acquired during the offseason, including free agent signing J.J. Barea. Josh Hickson and Jalen Rose are also on the team. All together, the Timberwolves have been a pleasant surprise, and with Davis and the likes of Zach LaVine playing great, it bodes well for the future of the franchise and what the Minnesota team is hoping to be in a few years. We talked to Kyle Rauscher, who has covered the Timberwolves for FanSided and SB Nation, and also his play-by-play partner, Brendan Toner, who has worked with the Minnesota Timberwolves for both ESPN and Xfinity. Jose De Leon: What has been your impression of the Minnesota team so far? Kyle Rauscher: I think it has been a good start. The Wolves gave up a lot of draft picks to get Wiggins and they got Rubio last year. Both of those guys are pretty good players, and the Wolves are getting better. BR: Minnesota's gotten off to a good start, but at the same time, if you look at the overall player development chart, the team is ranked just about 30th - there's a lot of room for improvement. What about the Wolves' level of effort this year? I know you can't simply be looking at points or losses, but do you see any team or players struggling to maintain effort? KR:
